New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Money on call loaned at comparatively easy rates to-day, from 4 to 6 per cent. The closing and lowest rate was 4½ per cent.

The dealings on the stock exchange this morning were on a limited scale. Dealings were confined chiefly to Whisky Trust, General Electric, Reading, New England and Missouri Pacific. The trust stocks were firm, as a rule, and advanced ½ to 1 per cent. for the morning. The most strength was displayed by sugar. Of the railroad stocks those named were only ones that recorded any movement. The course of prices for the railroad list was irregular, and tending downward. The noon prices however, were not materially changed from the closing of Saturday. The sale of stock for the morning amounted 106,128 shares.

Stocks were a little more active after midday, but fluctuations continued very narrow for the most of the list. The afternoon's market, in fact, was of a very negative character, there being no decided tendency either way. Indications were not lacking that a strong pool had been formed to advance the industrials and the strength of those speculatives to-day was attributed to the manipulation of insiders. There was considerable buying of Sugar Trust on the part of some of the larger brokers which was ascribed to the anticipated extra dividend to be paid in addition to the quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent. There was less than usual to-day about the gold exports scare, chiefly because this week's shipments, should there be any, will be withheld for Saturday's Havre steamer. The sterling market itself, though remains unchanged. It has been decided by the finance committee of the Erie railroad not to pay any dividend on the preferred stock this term. The reason that the money to pay a dividend would have to be borrowed if one was declared and it was thought wisest not to take such a step. The market at the close was dull and prices for the most part were not materially changed from the closing prices of Saturday.

The sales for the day amounted to 248,626 shares.

The Panama Scandals.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—The intense popular interest in the Panama canal scandal has been increased by the story of The Gaulois that Baron Reinach, the director, who was supposed to have died a few days ago, did not die a natural or an unnatural death, but had fled to a foreign country to escape criminal prosecution, and had the report of his death circulated merely to blind those who wished to expose the details of his connection with the company. This story had found wide spread credence, but is yet to be verified.

The first witness before the parliamentary commission of inquiry to-day was M. Prinet, investigating magistrate, who offered to give all information which would not violate the professional secrecy imposed on him. He said he was unable to give the names of the deputies who had received money, as he had been instructed only to see who disbursed the funds. He had tried in vain to trace the important check said to have been given to an ex-minister of agriculture, now dead. Clovis Hughes, when called, denied all connection with the company and then left.

A Venerable Invalid.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Dr. Scott, the venerable father-in-law of President Harrison, is very low to-night. Telegrams have been sent to members of the family residing out of the city.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—For Colorado: Fair, variable winds.

TELEGRAPH BREVITIES.

The British steamer Citta Di Messina, 800 tons, plying between Mediterranean and Black sea ports, foundered Sunday morning eighty-five miles off Cape Spartimento, Italy. Her crew have arrived at Messina.

It is reported in Wall street that Jay Gould will spend the winter in the far west. It is said Howard Gould, Miss Helen Gould and Dr. Munn will accompany him.

The new coast defense vessel Monterey will go into commission January 10, though it is not probable she will be ready for sea until three weeks thereafter.

It is officially announced that parliament will meet for business on January 31.

Emperor William has apparently entirely recovered from his recent indisposition. He left Potsdam to-day for Silesia, where he will hunt on the estate of the Prince of Pless.

Successful Bank Robbers.

LIBERTY, MO., Nov. 27.—Four expert cracksmen, with the use of dynamite and the latest improved tools, succeeded in cracking the big safe of the First National bank of this city Saturday night, and securing a sum of money which, though it cannot be fixed definitely because of the reticence of the officials of the bank, is variously estimated at from $11,000 to $15,000 by those who are in a position to know. The burglars were scared away before they had completed their work and did not get into the reserve vault of the safe, in which was $10,000 more, principally in gold. They had dynamite and a fuse attached to this, but for some unknown reason fled without touching it off.

The first intimation of the robbery came at 10:30 o'clock this morning when County-treasurer Riley, who has an office in the building adjoining the bank, went to his office. When he entered the room he saw that the wall of the building was caving in, and on investigation he found that there had been a terrific explosion in the bank which had almost wrecked both buildings. He at once gave the alarm and upon search it was learned that burglars had been at work successfully in the bank. They had entered the bank by means of skeleton keys which had opened the back door and another leading to the room in which was the vault.

They then drilled holes through the outer door of the vault and with a charge of powder blew out the time lock which had been set to open on Monday morning. Inside this was a steel door to the burglar proof compartment. The only money known to be outside of this door was $300 deposited late Saturday afternoon by the Liberty Building and Loan association. They used dynamite to effect an entrance through this second door. They must have used a terrific charge for the heavy steel door was so completely blown to pieces that not even a good-sized piece of it has been found. This gave the burglars access to all the money which the bank had in circulation on Saturday, and the deposits of merchants on that day being unusually heavy, $12,000 is considered a low estimate of what they got. On the floor of the bank were left several sticks of dynamite and a number of tools, showing that the men went off in a hurry.

It was learned that four suspicious looking characters had been seen in town on Saturday afternoon and evening, who were total strangers. Two were old men and two were apparently about 20. One of them bought a large quantity of putty before dark and this was used with the dynamite to deaden the sound. Leaving the bank the burglars went to the house of Mr. Joseph Steele and stole a carriage and team of horses with which they made their escape. The sheriff and posse tracked them as far as the Milwaukee railroad bridge over the Missouri river at Kansas City, where the horses were found in an almost dying condition, having been driven furiously. Here all traces of the men were lost, but the officials of Kansas City are working on the case and to-night think they have learned who the men are, but refuse to give names. It is stated that they got across the river by means of a boat which confederates held in waiting.

THE ROBBERS' BOOTY.

LIBERTY, MO., Nov. 28.—There are conflicting reports as to the amount of money secured by the Liberty bank robbers. The officials of the bank assert that their loss is not more than $1,000, but as only $2,000 was found in the reserve vault when opened by experts to-day, they fail to account for the large sum of money which they had on hand at the close of business on Sunday night and it is believed that the robbers made a large haul in spite of the protests of the bank officials. In addition to the money taken the bank lost a large amount of bonds and valuable papers destroyed in the explosion. John Soley was arrested in Kansas City as he alighted from a train at the Union depot charged with being one of the robbers. He is a bad character and is known to have been in Liberty last Thursday. His description tallies exactly with that of one of the men seen here Sunday night.

Charged with Embezzlement.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—An alleged embezzlement of $20,000 from Rand, McNally & Co., the publishers, was brought to light to-day by an attempt on the part of the accused, C. R. Williams, to dispose of his real estate at Austin. The sale was prevented by an attachment. Williams was until recently at the head of one of the Rand, McNally company's departments. It is charged that he converted commissions to the amount named to his own use. Upon being discovered he pleaded for mercy, and on account of his large family no criminal proceedings were instituted. He promised to make restitution, it is claimed, but instead went to New York and has since ignored all overtures for a settlement.

The Pope's Contribution.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The secretary of state has designated Mr. J. C. Heywood to act as the representative of the department of state at the Vatican to assist in the selection of the articles that should be carried to Chicago, and to assist in the packing and shipment of the Columbian historical relics. Mr. Heywood will serve without compensation and he cheerfully has undertaken the duties of the place.

He is an American of wealth, formerly of Philadelphia, but for some years a resident of Rome. His appointment was the result of the visit to Rome early in the year of Mr. William E. Curtis, the chief of the bureau of the American republics. Mr. Curtis was introduced to the Vatican secretary of state, Cardinal Rampolla, by Rev. Father J. P. Farrell of Tennessee, now connected with the American College of Rome.

The cardinal said that the originals of all maps, charts, pictures and printed books would be furnished, and that fac-similes would be made of all records and documents in his archives that related to Columbus and the discovery and early settlement of America. The question of loaning the originals of the latter had been carefully considered, but his holiness and the college of cardinals had determined that the precious manuscripts should not be permitted to leave the vatican.

They were records of the church and if lost or damaged could not be restored. But he thought the exact fac-similes would answer every purpose and promised to have two copies of each made, one for permanent preservation in the department of state at Washington and a second set for a museum which it is proposed to establish in Chicago.

Blaine Will Go West.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—"Mr. Blaine is doing very well. He is gaining strength and looking better every day," was the reply made by Dr. Johnston to-night when asked concerning the condition of the ex-secretary of state. The doctor said further that he had seen Mr. Blaine only once to-day and that was this morning. Mr. Blaine was then out of bed and sitting up and expected to sit up during the remainder of the day.

The opinion expressed by the physician in regard to the improvement in Mr. Blaine's condition is shared by his family and by the attendants of the house. To Mr. Blaine's family his improvement is especially gratifying for the reason that as soon as he is able to travel he will seek a climate more congenial and beneficial to him. The exact date of departure from Washington, it is said, has not yet been determined upon.

Speaker Crisp Interviewed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Speaker Crisp was seen at the Fifth Avenue hotel this morning by a United Press reporter and was asked: "Will an extra session of congress, in your opinion, be called?"

"That question will not be determined for several months. It is too early to decide. When congress has convened and the members have gathered, they will consult their constituencies on the subject."

The speaker does not know what Mr. Cleveland thought on the subject. When asked whether the present tariff would be reduced, he said: "That is what the Democrats were elected to do and you may be sure it will be done. There is no disagreement on the tariff question, for the people have spoken. If the senate is Democratic the present high tariff will be repealed. It looks like there will be forty-four Democratic senators, and I see that Senator Kyle of South Dakota has announced that he will vote for a reduction of tariff with the Democrats."

"What about the plan suggested by Senator Jones of Arkansas, to use the $100,000,000 gold reserve fund in the treasury?"

"I think when the secretary makes his report it will be found that the $100,000,000 gold reserve has already had a raid made upon it. How deep the raid has been made I do not know. The senator suggests that we use $50,000,000 and leave that amount for a reserve. Well, if the first $50,000,000 has been partially used, the senator will have to make another suggestion."

Democrats Not in Conference.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The Democratic conference that was reported to take place today has not materialized so far. It is not likely that a conference of Democratic leaders will take place, at least in New York. Speaker Crisp is at the Hoffman house, Senator Faulkner is at the Fifth Avenue hotel. Mr. Whitney is in town but had not been at the hotels to-day. [illegible] Gorman has not yet arrived. Senator Faulkner said to-day emphatically that he had not had the slightest intimation that a conference would take place. He believed that if there was to be one it would be held in Washington.

Mr. Egan Returns to Chili.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Hon. Patrick Egan, minister to Chili, left Chicago last evening for Washington after being entertained by Harlow Higginbotham, president of the World's Fair directory, who took him over the exposition grounds and through the buildings in Jackson Park and gave him luncheon afterwards at his house on Washington street. After arranging some details at the state department Mr. Egan will proceed to Chili.

To Be Settled By Lot.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 28.—The control of the next state assembly depends on a drawing by lot. That body now stands 62 Republicans, 58 People's Party, three Democrats and one Independent. The remaining representative is to be seated by lot, the vote in Coffey county being a tie. If the Republicans are successful in the drawing for the seat they will have just enough to organize the house. If they lose, the opposition will have a majority and control both branches of the legislature and will also elect a United States senator.

Kentucky's Official Vote.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 28.—The official vote of Kentucky is: Cleveland 175,424, Harrison 135,420, Weaver 23,501, Bidwell 6385. Total 340,724. Cleveland's plurality 40,004. In 1888 Cleveland received 183,100, Harrison 155,131. The total vote in 1888 was 344,800.

A Fatal Accident.

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 28.—At 8:30 o'clock this morning the well known steamer Hiram R. Dixon, of Booths No. 5 Shore Line was lying at her dock at the foot of Sixth avenue west, the main steam pipe burst with a terrific report, instantly killing two people and slightly injuring a number of others. The dead are: William Brooks, an 18 year old boy and William McNulty the fireman, both of this city. The damage to the boat is but slight.

A Disastrous Prairie Fire.

ABERDEEN, S. D., Nov. 28.—A prairie fire started a few days ago by a spark from an engine on the Gettysburg and Forest City railroad. All efforts to stop the spreading of the flames were of no avail. The fire swept over a large tract of country on the Missouri river, burning out a number of farmers, some of whom lost quite large sums.

A Wheat Blockade.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 28.—A special to The Pioneer Press from Huron, S. D., says Chairman Rice, of the state railway commission, went to the southern part of the state to-day to secure, if possible, a break in the wheat blockade. He estimates that over a million bushels of wheat are stored in warehouses and elevators on various lines of road in South Dakota. The commission is deluged with the complaints of insufficiency of cars and are powerless to give relief.

Ingalls Will Lecture.

ATCHISON, Kansas, Nov. 28.—Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls will deliver several lectures in the east in the near future, his first being at Akron, Ohio, Friday night. He will also speak at Lowell and New Bedford, Mass., Rochester and Binghamton and several other places before returning home for Christmas.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The receipts from internal revenue for first four months of the present fiscal year show an increase over the corresponding months of the last fiscal year of $4,832,852.

New York City's Vote.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The board of aldermen, consisting of the board of county canvassers, to-day filed with the county clerk the official count of New York city. It shows Cleveland's [illegible] plurality to be 76,300 and Gilroy's for mayor 76,[illegible]

COLORADO'S NEWS.

Items of Interest From Mountain and Plain.

A CRIPPLE CREEK SALE

The Fancy Tunnel Finds a Purchaser—A Diamond Drill Will Prospect at Rico—Senator Stewart Will Talk Silver.

Special to the Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, COLO., Nov. 28.—A [illegible] sale [illegible] ported to-day of the Fancy tunnel [illegible] gulch [illegible] The purchasers are W. J. Wilson, M. [illegible] Barber and Richard [illegible] A force [illegible] will be put to work and the [illegible] of a tunnel is contemplated.

Prospecting with a Drill.

DENVER, Nov. 28.—To-day the president and [illegible] directors of the Atlantic Cable Consolidated Mining company, of Rico, Colo., met and instructed the manager to purchase a complete outfit of diamond core drilling machinery and ship it to the company's property. The machinery is good for 1000 feet in depth, and drilling will be commenced inside of twenty days. This company owns ninety acres of mineral ground in the flat on which stands the town of Rico, and forty acres of it show ore on the surface. A shaft has been sunk fifty feet on this ore without getting through it, and although low grade, it is pay ore. But the second, and what is known as the "bonanza" contact will be bored for, and is expected to be struck about three hundred feet below the surface, when startling developments in the way of an enormous body of gold and silver bearing lead and copper ore is expected by the company. The Atlantic Cable Consolidated is one of the largest companies in the state and the stock will not be listed on any exchange, and is all pooled with the exception of 100,000 shares of treasury stock.

Senator Stewart Will Be There.

DENVER, Nov. 28.—United States Senator William M. Stewart of Nevada has telegraphed President Slater, of the Colorado Silver League, that he will arrive in Denver on the 1st and address Thursday's state league convention.

A Contest in Arapahoe.

DENVER, Nov. 28.—John M. Williams, (colored) Republican, filed with the secretary of state a statement in contest against Emmett A. Bromley for a seat in the legislature from Arapahoe county. Mr. Williams alleges that Mr. Bromley's name was on four tickets, four of which were illegal; that the name Emmett was improperly spelled "Emmet;" that Bromley filed with the secretary of state no acceptance as a candidate; that he filed no certificate of his candidacy with the county clerk and recorder of Arapahoe county. Contestant also makes an allegation that illegal votes were cast in Elyria and Irondale.

An Important Decision.

DENVER, Nov. 28.—In the court of appeals to-day in the case of State Treasurer vs. Superintendent of Insurance Hard, the decision of the lower court was reversed and this court holds that under the law the superintendent of the insurance department has no right to use the funds of his office for any expenses incurred in traveling outside the state, or even outside the office of the department. The decision further holds that the state treasurer is responsible for all moneys received from all sources, and that he has a right to know where all moneys go that are paid out by him, and that no funds shall be drawn except by warrant and in the regular order.

After Gold in the Indian Territory.

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 28.—A man just returned from a hunting expedition in the Indian country reports that several companies with influential backing have been quietly formed within the last week for the purpose of obtaining control of the gold mining interests of the Arbuckle, Wichita and Rainy mountains in the southwest part of the Indian territory. Senator Perkins and several of his senatorial and congressional friends are said to be in the deal, and John H. Moffatt, the Rock Island man, and other local capitalists are interested. The idea seems to be to get a bill passed through the short session to throw this country open to prospectors under the mining law and if this fails a raid will be made after the manner of that which forced the opening of the Deadwood country. The Indians of that neighborhood say they have for years mined such gold as they needed for their trinkets and that the mountains are rich but they do not intend to let the whites gain possession, and as soon as a white prospector locates a mining claim an Indian will take it up as his allotment.

Jay Gould's Intention.

EL PASO, Nov. 28.—Jay Gould has begun the preliminary work for the building of the White Oaks railroad which was purchased by him last spring from Receiver Charles Davis for $50,000. He has a corps of engineers now in the field and is pushing the survey with all possible speed. It is not generally known, but it is nevertheless a fact, that Mr. Gould will come to El Paso in January and spend the winter for his health, and will at the same time supervise the construction of this line, which is to be the link between the Texas Pacific and Union Pacific systems.

C. P. Huntington is supposed to be in the deal somewhere, but just what his interests are, aside from the coal fields at White Oaks, has not developed.

Rev. Mr. Briggs' Trial.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The trial of the Rev. Charles A. Briggs on a charge of heresy began at 12 o'clock this afternoon before the presbytery of New York in the Scotch Presbyterian church in West Fourteenth street. Professor Briggs conducted his own defense, aided by Professor Brown, of the Union Theological seminary, and the Rev. H. M. Field.

The memorial sermon which the presbytery objects to was delivered by Dr. Briggs on Jan. 20, 1891, and was the inaugural address at the Union Theological seminary. The trouble which followed resulted in the withdrawal of the seminary from the general assembly. The institution supported Dr. Briggs and did not believe that his teachings were contrary to the standard of Presbyterian doctrine. After roll call at 3 o'clock Dr. Briggs began to read his argument.

Dr. Briggs began by stating that he appeared before the Presbytery of New York in compliance with a citation dated Nov. 9, last. He quoted the book of discipline to the effect that the defendant had a right to make such objections to the form of the charges or to any question affecting their regularity as he thought fit.

Dr. Briggs then made his first demurrer to the present charges, because the charges put into his hands on Nov. 9, 1892, were finally disposed of by the dismissal of the case against him on Nov. 4, 1891, and that the presbytery could not legally cite him a second time to answer charges which they had dismissed.

The second objection which Dr. Briggs raised was to the order and regularity of every proceeding in the presbytery in any action taken against him since the dismissal of the original charge in 1891.

The second [illegible] tion of Dr. Briggs' protest dealt with the irregularity of the amendments to their original charges.

In conclusion, Dr. Briggs says: "I ask the [illegible] in [illegible] dilemma, if it is just, if it is honorable, if it is in accordance with Christian courtesy and gentlemanly propriety, for the prosecution to make such charges against me? They put you in a dilemma. Either you must with them challenge my veracity, or you must permit them to present proof that my explanations must be accepted as true. If you wish to challenge my veracity you should [illegible] under a moral charge, you cannot do it under a doctrinal charge. If you permit them to [illegible] such explanations and recognize them as valid you will engage in illegal procedure, for according to the decision of the supreme court of the church in the Craighead case 'no man can rightly be convicted of heresy by inference or implication.' It is not right to charge any man with an opinion which he disavows.' For these reasons I object to charges 1 and 2 and I demand of the Presbytery that they comply with the law of the church and reject them from the list of the charges."

An Argentine Election.

BUENOS AYRES, Nov. 28.—Municipal elections were held to-day in the cities of the various provinces, and disturbances are reported from several places. The most serious disorders occurred at Bolivar, where the police and a mob had an encounter in which it is reported several policemen were shot.

An Assisted Immigrant.

The Colorado Commission Company Management in Trouble.

George E. Clark, erstwhile manager of the Postal Telegraph company in this city, is in jail in Denver on a warrant sworn out by A. E. Carlton of this city.

Carlton, Clark, and J. K. Moore, otherwise known as Jerry Blodgett, were engaged in running a stock brokerage business, in the Hagerman block under the name of the Colorado Commission company with a branch office in the Boston block, Denver. Moore worked in this city but a few months. During the time that he was manager of the concern here he acquired the reputation of being an expert bookkeeper and a brilliant poker player. He went to Denver last summer to open the branch office there.

The embezzlement which Clark is alleged to be interested in is supposed to have taken place within the past three months. Carlton was often absent from the city. During a visit to Glenwood Springs last August, Carlton alleges that the concern was mulcted out of $4,000. During the last thirty days Mr. Carlton has been absent in New York city and on his return found the firm h[illegible] $6,000 more. The scheme employed by Clark and Blodgett was to sell stocks for the firm and make the books appear that they were sold at a loss, whereas they were often sold at a good round profit. Another scheme of the pair was to send out fictitious quotations at a cent or so below the market. They would then gather in the stocks and sell them at the correct figure and pocket the difference and in an hour or two let the correct quotations go out.

For the purpose of fleecing Carlton, Clark and Moore put a "dummy" upon the books to whom they ostensibly sold the firm's stock. This served for a time as a blind. Clark, however, tried to get a Kansas City house into his confidence and it was through them that his scheme was laid bare.

He was manager of the Postal company up to last September when he was relieved for neglect of duty and general unworthiness. He is well remembered by the mining brokers. Several firms allege that he stepped between them and trades by taking advantage of telegrams over his line and by intercepting others and in this way doing the business himself.

It is stated that Blodgett and Clark are cousins.

Mr. Clarence Edsall states that his membership in the Colorado Commission company terminated about two months ago.

A Father Finds His Eloping Daughter and Her Husband in This City.

Alanson Arnold, a New York detective, with William Weir of the same city, arrived in Colorado Springs yesterday afternoon in search of the latter gentleman's eloping 16-year-old daughter, who left a boarding school in Connecticut about three weeks ago with a dashing young fellow of 19. The detective traced them from Danbury, Conn., to New York, where the couple purchased tickets for Chicago. At Chicago it was learned that a couple answering the description of the runaways had gone to Denver. At Denver it was learned that the couple had been married by a Methodist minister, giving the minister their right names; but saying they lived at Highlands. No trace of them could be found farther in Denver, until it was accidentally learned that a couple much resembling the pictures the detective had of them had been seen on a Denver and Rio Grande train by a Denver man who got off the train with them at this city.

Detective Arnold and Mr. Weir arrived in this city yesterday afternoon, but failed to find the couple at any of the hotels or principal boarding houses. Last night the detective thought he would take a stroll around town and see the city and went to the theater early, standing in the lobby thinking possibly the couple might like to take in "Bill's Boot." Failing to find them there, he continued his walk down Tejon street to Huerfano and to the new viaduct. He then retraced his steps to Cascade avenue, and as he was turning the corner spied the couple he was looking for. He asked the young man what time it was and while he was pulling out his watch the detective pulled out the pictures of the couple, handing the likeness of the girl to the gentleman, asking if he had ever seen that young lady before. The young man, thoroughly frightened, asked who this mysterious man might be and was informed that he was an officer looking for him with a warrant for arrest on the charge of abduction.

The young fellow readily agreed that he would accompany the detective back to New York. The young girl plead with the officer not to arrest her, saying she was thoroughly repentant and would gladly return home. She was taken back to the boarding house and placed in the care of the house keeper.

Miss Weir is a handsome young girl of nearly seventeen. The name of the young man was refused a representative of THE GAZETTE. He is of good family. They leave this evening for the east, the father [illegible] charge of abduction [illegible]

HETEROPHORALGIA
Or Headache from Eye Strain.

It is a fact now known and generally conceded by oculists and educated physicians, that certain so-called "eye diseases" of bygone years, as well as many cases of chronic headaches, neuralgia, in children as well as adults, are due to a defective construction of the eyeball, or to an irregularity of one of its focusing powers. The deficiencies can only be discovered and remedied by a careful and thorough examination at the hands of a competent SPECIALIST.

It frequently happens that in a civilized community events arise in which the power of government seems totally unable to combat with the evil which suddenly rushes in attack upon the peace and established laws. Government is established under certain limitations. Certain things are taken for granted. It is supposed for instance that men have a common humanity, that they will not indulge in crime without a motive, that they will not steal things for which they have no use that they will not harm their fellows when their personal interest is not concerned, and that they will not commit murder except when their own life is in danger or when their common humanity is set aside by the action of some deep passion. When therefore a criminal does come who is not fettered by these limitations who is free from the restraints of the common humanity justice is at a loss to capture first and afterwards to punish him. It is easy to call such people insane, and so they are if by insane is meant unsound but their minds are more perverted than deficient, and the common welfare demands that a strict accountability for their actions be required. Such was Guiteau the slayer of Garfield, such were the anarchists of the Haymarket massacre, such have been the central figures in the great and mysterious criminal cases of the century, and such undoubtedly are the criminals who have been terrifying the inhabitants of the suburbs of Chicago with their mysterious and brutal crimes. Fortunately there is in communities as in individuals a power of adjustment which enables them to meet great dangers, if not always promptly, at least surely. As soon as the gravity of a situation is appreciated a means will be found to remedy the evil. So the vigilantes of California put an end to the reign of terror in the early days, and so the Chicago police, helpless as they have so far seemed to be, will find a way to check the crimes and to bring the criminals to a deserved punishment.

The comet failed to strike the earth on Saturday night, as had been feared, and did not even put in an appearance among the stars of heaven. This result, although predicted for some days past in the newspapers, was a great disappointment to some people who had heard only of the earlier announcements of the scientists, and in many parts of the country the fatal hour was awaited with fear and trembling. The dread and uncertainty was further increased by the prevalence of heavy clouds in the eastern states which shut out the sky, and to the minds of the terrified people concealed the approach of the dreadful monster. It is illustrative of the artificial life of to-day that this comet, which has been advertised all over the world, until everyone who reads the papers has heard something about it, has never been seen by any eye without a glass. It is strange, in the first place, that at the present time the heavens are so closely and constantly scanned, that a comet which in other years would have come and gone without anyone on earth being aware of its presence, is quickly detected, studied, its motion and its size calculated, its course determined, and all the details laid before an interested public. In olden days the blazing monster of the sky, portending war and doom, drove the frightened multitude to their prayers in a hope to avert the danger. To-day an equal panic has come upon the ignorant, and almost an equal interest upon the learned over a cloud of star dust which has never been visible to the unaided eye, and which through the telescope even is so unsubstantial that the faintest stars have been seen through its filmy substance. The spectacle of a world alarmed over an invisible comet is more amusing than it is creditable to the human race.

The senate committee which is now investigating the subject of immigration, has one of the most important political questions of the day for its consideration. Theoretically our country is, as it has been, free to all, and especially to those of other lands who are oppressed and who seek on these shores the glad sun of freedom. But it is evident to any one that it may be possible that so large a number of immigrants of degraded nations and classes shall be landed upon our shores as to imperil our liberties, and drag our national character downward beyond our powers of immediate recovery. That such is already the case is the opinion of many of the wisest of our statesmen, and the number is increasing who think that stringent measures should be adopted to prevent the further spread of some evils which are already painfully apparent. If our nation is to remain united in name it must be united in sentiment. We must have one language a common national patriotism and a common spirit of intelligence and education. But the problem of the restriction of immigration is by no means an easy one. It is a difficult task to frame a law which will shut out those whom we do not want and let in those whom we do. If the committee is able to ascertain facts and to receive testimony and opinions which will enable it to frame a law upon this subject which will be both wise and just, it will have deserved well of the country and have accomplished a great public benefit.

Immigration and Disease

Denver Republican

A committee of the senate is considering the subject of immigration with a view to [illegible] a bill to place greater restrictions [illegible] of undesirable people. [illegible] demands a change of this sort in the immigration law, and it is probable that an effort to adopt amendments of this character will be made before the end of the present congress.

Immigration has a close relation to disease, and especially to diseases of a contagious character. The order of the treasury department requiring immigrants from Europe to be detained at quarantine for twenty days went into effect too late to have much to do with the threatened invasion of cholera into this country last August and September for shortly afterwards the cholera epidemic in western Europe began to abate. But if it had been early instead of late in the season the wisdom of the order would have very clearly shown itself. The danger of the entrance of cholera would have continued through the warm months in a much more serious form than it assumed upon the approach of cool weather. This danger has not yet ceased entirely, and there is therefore comfort in the fact that the order is still in force. There is no intention on the part of the government to relax this requirement in so far as steerage immigrants are concerned, [illegible] will doubtless continue in force until after the new administration comes [illegible]. It is not likely that Mr Cleveland will [illegible] it if the danger of an invasion of cholera is great next spring.

This order almost grows out [illegible] immigration. It accomplished a double good. It re[illegible] the [illegible] of disease and [illegible] the stream of immigration. The [illegible] without any [illegible] the [illegible] treasury department may keep it [illegible] desirable [illegible] the country on all [illegible] to [illegible] in order to prevent the landing of thousands of those who are undesirable. It may have the effect of turning the attention of European emigrants to other countries and thus divert the stream of immigration to South America Africa or Australia.

The senate committee will probably recommend amendments to the immigration law requiring a person desiring to migrate to this country to show his fitness at the place of embarkation. A provision of this sort has from time to time been suggested. But there have been objections to it [illegible] persons, [illegible] thinking it too severe while others have looked upon it as impracticable. The strong demand in favor of a more stringent measure than the present law will probably lead to the adoption of some such amendment as this.

LITERARY NOTES

Encouraged by the unprecedented success attending the introduction of illustrations in the department of newest books the editors of Current Literature have decided to devote about fifty pages of the Christmas number to the discussion of books of the season. One hundred and fifty volumes, fresh from the press are classified and reviewed with descriptive and critical comment boiled down to the fewest words, extended readings from the most notable volumes of the month are presented, with nearly four dozen selected illustrations are reproduced by the latest processes. This new departure, which will give Current Literature the foremost place as an authoritative literary exponent has not been attempted at the expense of the other well known departments. Special attention has been given to The World's Fair, Fads and Fancies, and The Sketch Book, while in each of the old time favorites will be gathered the choicest products of the monthlies, weeklies and dailies, sifted and arranged for the benefit of the "Person who has not got time to wade through everything" in order to keep up to date. The literary prize department is booming. Current Literature is as necessary in a well regulated household as a door bell or a dumb waiter.

The bound volume of Harper's Young People for 1892, which is just ready for publication, is fully equal to its predecessors in the beauty, value and variety of its contents. Among its contributors are such well known writers as W. D Howells, Thomas Nelson Page, Capt. Charles King, Kirk Munroe, Margaret E. Sangster, Howard Pyle, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Charles Carleton Coffin, and many others. The illustrations are numerous and beautiful. As a holiday gift book for boys and girls it is unsurpassed.

A bunch of imported rams, forty in number, were sidetracked at Glenwood yesterday. They came from Scotland, and are consigned to George S Alsebrook of Meeker. Mr Alsebrook is an old Australian sheep raiser, and occupies the curious position of being the only sheepman allowed on the White river ranges by the cattle barons of Routt and Rio Blanco counties. He was in possession prior to the big bunches of cattle, and respecting his rights the cattle association have allowed him to remain unmolested.—[Aspen Times.

Mr Willmarth chief of the historical department for Colorado at the World's Fair, has received from his assistant, Mr Wetherel, some fine exhibits from the cliff dwellers. One is a string of white ocean shells on a yucca string which were tied up in a piece of buckskin. In a crochet bag made of yucca twine was found the root of a milkweed which herb is now used by Mexicans and Indians for heart disease. These relics were taken from Navajo canon. They are supposed to be many ages old but are in a remarkable state of preservation.

The miners at Duncan held an informal meeting last Sunday afternoon to decide what steps to take in regard to the grant. After some discussion an appeal to the Court of Private Land Claims was gotten up stating the facts as they exist. The same was subscribed to by 64 miners and mine owners who were present and it was forwarded by mail to the court now in session in Santa Fe, N M. It was also decided to secure the services of the Hon Anthony Joseph who has so successfully fought these fraudulent and grants for the past twelve years, and correspondence was opened with him on the subject. It is only a matter of time when Baca Grant No 4 will be a thing of the past.—Garrison Tribune.

Price & McGavock, contractors of this place have secured a very important contract. It is nothing less than putting a tunnel under Staten Island and the price is $18 000 000. The stipulations of the contract are iron clad, one of them being a bond of $5 000 000 that the work will be completed within five years. Another is that no street of the city shall be blocked for more than two years. The entire work is divided into five sections, and a bond of $1 000 000 is put up that each section will be completed the year specified. Altogether, it is an immense contract and much credit is due this enterprising firm for securing it.—La Junta Tribune.

Believing that the railroad men are [illegible] deserving of some recognition in the distribution of state patronage the different organizations of railroad employes for southern Colorado have united upon James O N[illegible] an engineer on the Ouray branch of the Denver and Rio Grande railway as their choice for the position of state boiler inspector. Mr O Neil has been in the employ of the Denver & Rio Grande railway for thirteen years as an engineer and is well and favorably known over the entire line. He is thoroughly competent for the position and the railroad men are backed in their application by the Farmers Alliance and the miners of the San Juan.—Aspen Times.

Fred Tyler of the firm of [illegible] Tyler & Co Chicago is traveling over the state taking views of all points of interest for use during the World's Fair. He is here under the auspices of the Burlington and Rio Grande railroads and will make views of all the choice bits of scenery of leading mines and manufactories, of prominent buildings, schools churches, etc. in all of the larger towns and cities. The enterprise is to be commended as one that will greatly assist in advertising the attractions and progress of Colorado at the great Columbian exposition.—Denver Times.

AN IMBECILE ASYLUM

A CORRESPONDENT DESCRIBES AN INTERESTING INSTITUTION

How Children of Feeble Intellect Are Trained to Become Self Sustaining—The Columbus Asylum Has a Thousand Inmates and Is Admirably Managed

[Special Correspondence.]

COLUMBUS O Nov 24. Growing out of any reflecting glory upon our Nineteenth century civilization is the great importance given to the education of the physical and mental unfortunates of the human race.

Literally almost the blind see and the deaf hear and now the child of feeble intellect the most unfortunate of all, is beginning to understand and know. It is wonderful what has been and is being done with the imbecile. From a helpless dependent member of society, our great state institutions are transforming him into a self supporting individual and fitting him in many instances to fill at least a humble sphere in life.

Perhaps the most notable school for the training of feeble minded children is in this city. It is the largest one in the country having nearly 1 000 inmates. It is beautifully situated and having been under the capable management for a good many years has been developed systematically intelligently and steadily. The superintendent Dr Doren has executive ability and the instinct of order to a marked degree, and with these qualities combines sympathy for the unfortunate with an intense love of his work, which is unusual.

The asylum is primarily for imbeciles—that is children of feeble intellect who can learn if sufficient care and patience is given to their training but who are utterly unable to advance by the ordinary methods of education outside. Very often the first thing to be done with them is to teach them to use their physical members. Some children are literally taught to walk who before coming to the institution, were utterly unable to, not from physical disability, but from natural backwardness and because no one had sufficient patience to try to teach them. The hands are made to do their share of the work, and the wandering attention is fixed by various devices. Then, if possible, the pupil is interested in some simple stories and games. To these ends his early training is largely after kindergarten methods. He is taught color form and arrangement. The molding in clay and sand done in some of the schoolrooms is really remarkable, and when one considers the material with which the teacher labors, the patience and tact which she must bring to her work, one realizes that she is truly a missionary, bringing light and understanding to the intellectually destitute.

After the kindergarten training the child is taught to read. To begin with, he is given words on cardboard names of objects around the schoolroom, of domestic animals and of things about the farm with which he is familiar. He learns to name all these cards, point out the objects to you or tell where they are in words or—if he cannot talk—by signs. Then charts are given him with simple sentences illustrated upon them. Afterward he is put into a very easy reader, arranged according to the word method that is, the words are taught before the letters. Object teaching is necessarily used in the beginning almost entirely, and largely throughout his entire course of study. From the word method he goes into the first reader and thence on his course of study is very much that of the ordinary child, but his progress is necessarily very slow.

He must be taught individually almost everything. It is quite impossible until he has attained some degree of advancement to put him into a class with others, and even when so placed he has to have many little difficulties explained to him separately. Every device must be used to attract and hold him to the subject of study. He is taught counting by the objects with which he is familiar, by different colored balls, by buttons, corn, by bits of cardboard and every device which the teacher can invent. There must always be as nearly as possible a material representation of the idea which she is trying to convey.

From molding figures in kindergarten schools he advances in the higher grades to molding maps, and so gains a better idea of geography than by any other method. In connection with the work in the schoolroom, and following out the manual training idea, the pupil is taught to sew. The girls make underclothing dresses and bedding. The boys learn tailoring. Physical culture, too receives a large share of attention. Every child who is not helpless and crippled is put into a gymnastic class and spends one-half hour each day in exercise. The benefit is incalculable, for many of the children are physically weak and imperfectly developed.

In the lower classes the child is taught to properly lift his feet use his arms follow a leader, obey an order and keep time. In consequence of such drill he advances little by little until he is able to execute complicated movements in a remarkably perfect manner. The love of melody is as often an instinct with the feeble minded child as with the bright one, and music is a powerful factor in his education. It attracts and holds him as nothing else can.

The children sing beautifully part songs as well as simple melodies and learn from dictation by heart the words of all their songs so that they sing frequently with an abandon not found among children who read their songs by note and word.

After the boy has progressed sufficiently in the schoolroom to enable him to learn a trade he is put to work at one under the immediate supervision of a trained mechanic. A large number of boys are in the shoe shop and make all of the shoes worn by the children and do all of the mending. In the tailor shop the suits are made for all the boys in the institution and the plumber blacksmith, carpenter and painter is each a teacher in his specialty of a number of pupils.

The farm employs the largest number of boys naturally and employs a class incapable of employment elsewhere except in the cleaning department. Many of the children can be taught the simplest branches of farmwork who could not understand the more complicated trades.

All of the cleaning about the house is done under direction by the inmates and one feels almost tempted during a morning journey to the institution to paraphrase the Song of the Shirt and make it Scrub scrub scrub. There are such armies of scrubbers everywhere. The girls after leaving the schoolroom are taught dressmaking and mending cooking, laundry work and general housework. In the sewing room are made all the dresses worn by the pupils.

After the training given at the institution is completed the child if capable of independently caring for himself is sent out into the world to earn his living. If not he is kept and made useful at the institution until his place is required by smaller children coming in when he is returned to the officials of the county from which he came as being the only agents responsible for him. Many of the children could be made self supporting under competent supervision who if allowed to go out into the world alone become burdens to society and propagators of their kind.

Mental weakness means invariably moral weakness and though the institution may make the child ordinarily capable and self supporting under its management it cannot in all instances make him so when he is sent out into the world. However some do go out who are enabled by the education given them to make a fair living.

Among the greatest benefits conferred by the institution is the orderliness which it teaches its pupils. The lives they lead are perfectly regular and directed according to the best known principles of health. Every child is given each day unless it is stormy, a large amount of outdoor exercise. In case of storms there are long covered corridors attached to the buildings so arranged that the sides can be almost entirely opened up and in these corridors clothed as for outdoors the children promenade. The sanitary condition of the house is constantly watched. Disinfectants are used in every corner and during the day the dormitories are thoroughly aired. In their sitting rooms and sleeping rooms and during meals the children are under the care of attendants.

The institution contains a large library of the best literature extant for young people, which is in constant use in the schools and reading rooms and which by means of its illustrated books its simple stories and its great fund of information on general topics is an aid to the teacher greater almost than any other she can receive.

It would be impossible to more than outline the great work done by such institution and that Ohio has one so perfect in all respects is due entirely to Dr Doren a man whose every thought has been for the unfortunate who has been given to his work and whose philanthropy and [illegible] expression.

OCTAVE [illegible]

CRIPPLE CREEK LETTER.

From the Regular Gazette Correspondent at the Gold Fields.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 28. The Grant Transfer company have just hauled out two more car loads of high grade ore from the Morning Glory No. 1, which is being sent to the Denver smelter for treatment. It is but due the owners of this property that the public mind should be disabused of the impression that it is or ever was any part of the Anaconda. The facts are as follows: The Work Mining company sold the Puffer and Rustler lodes to the new Anaconda company, but did not consolidate with it, remaining an entirely different company and under very different management. The properties of the Work company are the Morning Glories Nos. 1, 2 and 4, the Ida B., Poorman and the Little Clara all in Squaw gulch. The Morning Glory No. 1 appears so far to be the queen of them all. Shipments from it up to date have run one hundred and thirty five dollars per ton by the car load. The Morning Glory No. 2 has a vein of good mineralized quartz but not yet sufficiently developed to estimate its value. The No. 4 is developed by a 60-foot tunnel and a 60-foot shaft both on the same vein which is about 7 feet wide and has 8 to 10 inches of talc on the foot wall. This assays from $28 to $275 to the ton but the average yield does not so far justify the expence of shipping to Denver for treatment. The Work Mining company may be proud of this rich property, a very large sum having been expended in prospecting and developing their claims before they succeeded in obtaining any satisfactory returns. Now they possess mines that will be listed among the best producers in the camp. The Work company are anxious to emphatically impress upon the mind of the public that it is an entirely independent company and not mixed up in any way whatever with the Anaconda consolidation. This company will continue to ship from six to ten car loads per month, besides a large quantity of low grade ore which will be treated near the mines by the Sylvanite mill, which will be running steadily in about two weeks, with a 20-ton capacity. The Work company is out of debt, has a large treasury fund and will immediately erect steam hoisting work, to hasten the progress of development.

An Innocent Follower.

He was going home to his wife and family. It was growing dark. His road from the station was a lonely one, and he was getting along as fast as he could, when he suddenly suspected that a man behind him was following him purposely. The faster he went the faster the man went, until they came to a churchyard. "Now," he said to himself, "I'll find out if he's after me," and he entered the churchyard. The man followed him. Vague visions of revolvers and garroters grew upon him. He made a detour of a splendid mausoleum. Still the man was after him; round and round.

At last he turned and faced the fellow and asked: "What the dickens do you want? What are you following me for?" "Well, sir, do you always go home like this? I am going up to Mr. Fitzbrown's house with a parcel, and the porter at the station told me that if I'd follow you I should find the place, as you live next door. Are you going home at all tonight?"—Melbourne City and Country.

Through tickets over these lines include staterooms and meals on board the steamers. No more interesting or pleasant excursion than this can be made. With mind refreshed and strengthened by this period of perfect rest, one lands in the metropolis ready to accomplish whatever affairs he may have on hand with renewed vigor and increased prospects of success.

"Bill's Boot"

People who stayed away from the opera house last evening missed a good show A new show with a most unattractive name can [illegible] majority of the usual theater goers to remain away from the house, however The performance is a farce comedy, a spectacular show and a vaudeville performance combined It serves to give Joseph Sullivan and Larry Smith an opportunity to display their Irish and Dutch comedy under a variety of situations The first and last scenes are supposed to occur at a villa on the Hudson, and the second scene at an enchanted castle on the Rhine The second scene is a dream of the two men and it is in this act that the spectacular part of the show is given

Mayor Jewett of Green Mountain Falls is a firm believer in the future of the town and its possibilities as a mining camp He lately drilled down on one of "Wizard Kimball's locations to a depth of 725 feet. The college chapel was filled yesterday afternoon by those interested in the French language and its teaching, the occasion being a somewhat informal talk by Dr Louis Sauveur concerning his "natural" method of teaching modern languages. After some preliminary remarks in regard to the system invented and carried out so successfully by him, and his plans while in this city Dr Sauveur gave an interesting and successful illustration of his methods of teaching. Three young men who had no previous knowledge of French, were taught in the space of a few minutes to pronounce some French words better than many can do it after months of study, to count in French and carry on a simple conversation All this was done without the use of English speech Dr Sauveur will give a similar talk before the high school on Friday at 4 p. m., and will also explain his conversational method of teaching Latin a system which has had a remarkable success elsewhere While in the city Dr Sauveur, in addition to his classes will give a series of lectures in French upon topics of literary interest which will be found to be well worth the attention of all who are able to understand and appreciate them
